EASTER BONNETS NOW ON VIEW AT LORD & TAYLOR'S.

High Crowned Henry of Navarres and the Charlotte Cordays Are the Newest Shapes.

If you are a woman and love feathered finery, run up to Lord & Taylor's, at Broadway and Nineteenth street, and take a look at their millinery display. The advent of the straw hat is always a festive occasion in the stores, but nowhere is spring more attractively heraided than at this exclusive shop.

The Easter bonnet, as shown at Lord

The warm days will bring forth many a brilliantly-hued hat, for red in all shades, from pink to cherry, promises to be fashion's favorite. Rod hats of sailor shape, covered with soft illusion and decorated with flowers and boys; tomato colored hats of diminutive size, with merely a quill for adornment; cherry bonnets with drooping plumes of contrasting shades, make a riot of color in the brilliant showrooms. The woman who wants to be really swell must invest in a vivid bonnet.

The high crown, too, is a striking feature of the coming season, for hats big and little are invariably topped by a stovepipe crown, from which jauntily flaunt feathers in profusion. Designers this season have gone back several centuries in search of something new, and have adapted the dashing bonnet of Henry of Navarre as a favorite bof Henry of Navarre as a favorite Lord & Taylor's show a great variety of hats in this fascinating style, each and every one a veritable gem of loveliness.
